AGENDA ITEM: Mutual Obligations of Tenure

☐ Review  ☐ Review + Action  ☐ Action  X Discussion

☐ This is a report required by Board policy.

PRESENTERS: Karen Hanson, Executive Vice President & Provost
C. Daniel Frisbie, Distinguished McKnight University Professor and Department Head, Chemical Engineering and Materials Science, College of Science & Engineering

PURPOSE & KEY POINTS

The purpose of this item is to discuss the reciprocal obligations between the institution and its tenured faculty as defined in Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure. The discussion will include current and historical context on tenure in higher education.

Mutual Obligations of Tenure

The preamble of Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure – adopted in 1945 and last amended in 2011 – provides rationale for the tenure system that describes the role of tenure as a compact between the University faculty and the people of Minnesota. The preamble describes as follows:

Tenure is the keystone for academic freedom; it is essential for safeguarding the right of free expression and for encouraging risk-taking inquiry at the frontiers of knowledge. Both tenure and academic freedom are part of an implicit social compact which recognizes that tenure serves important public purposes and benefits society. The people of Minnesota are best served when faculty are free to teach, conduct research, and provide service without fear of reprisal and to pursue those activities with regard for long term benefits to society rather than short term rewards. In return, faculty have the responsibility of furthering the institution’s programs of research, teaching, and service, and are accountable for their performance of these responsibilities. Additionally, a well-designed tenure system attracts capable and highly qualified individuals as faculty members, strengthens institutional stability by enhancing faculty members’ institutional loyalty, and encourages academic excellence by retaining and rewarding the most able people. Tenure and promotion imply selectivity and choice; they are awarded for academic and professional merit, not for seniority. The length and intensity of the review leading to the grant of tenure ensures the retention only of well-qualified faculty committed to the University’s mission.
Board policy affirms key characteristics of tenure, such as the protection tenure provides – safeguarding academic risk-taking in the pursuit of new and sometimes controversial inquiry, inquiry that may be protracted and that may not be perceived to have immediate utility to the institution or society. It notes the role of tenure in strengthening institutional loyalty, attracting and retaining excellent faculty and providing a framework for rewarding excellence. It highlights the crucial role of tenured faculty as officers of the institution and stewards of the University’s academic mission.

National Context for Tenure

Tenure is a central element of American research universities. The statement known as the 1915 Declaration of Principles, adopted by the Committee on Academic Freedom and Academic Tenure of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), is often considered the foundational document that delineates the mutual obligations of tenure and the connection between academic freedom and tenure. Another Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure, adopted in 1940 by the AAUP, has since become the doctrinal document explicating the principles of tenure and its obligations.

Key sections of Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure mirror the principles set forth in the Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure and are consonant with the principles adopted by peer institutions. These policy matters relate to the length of faculty members’ probationary periods and to provisions for termination of employment for cause and in cases of financial exigency. Board policy also includes the expectation that when faculty exercise their constitutionally guaranteed right to free speech as citizens outside the University, they must have the “the candor to make it clear that, when [they are] speaking on matters of public interest, [they are] not speaking for the institution” (Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure, Section 1.1).

Future of Tenure

Some critics of tenure point to purported inefficiencies in the system, arguing that tenure makes the institutions less nimble and less capable of adjusting to new educational challenges, modes of inquiry, and research foci. Other critics wonder whether faculty, upon attaining tenure, have sufficient incentives to continue to work hard or the prospect of real sanctions if they do not remain effective in their jobs.

While tenure does have costs, so would the elimination of tenure. There are reasons tenure remains intact at research universities. Tenure is presumably of real value to the individual, and, in the absence of tenure, research institutions would likely have to pay substantial compensation premiums to compete for the best faculty. Tenure is a powerful incentive for talent to gravitate to and remain at the University, and thus it helps protect the significant start-up investments in research infrastructure that universities must make for early career faculty. However, the cost of tenure is the benefit of research and inquiry directed to problems and issues not by centralized administrative planning but by the curiosity and expertise that is dispersed throughout the faculty.

The University has addressed questions about tenure in a variety of ways, consistently reinforcing the importance of tenure while remaining attentive to the need for policies and practices that strengthen public confidence in the accountability of universities and demonstrate the value of tenure for the common good. All faculty are subject to annual performance reviews, and the University’s tenure policies include a detailed protocol for addressing post-tenure performance. Each academic department’s tenure and promotion statement includes sections that provide detailed descriptions of the minimum goals and expectations for faculty effectiveness in that unit, and those expectations for continuing high performance are broadly aligned with the performance criteria relevant for the award of tenure.

Tenure is a central element of American research universities and has become a foundational element of their success. Despite challenges, universities have had continued global preeminence. That may be one reason why many European universities (especially the universities in the League of European Research Universities) have been shifting practices to models more similar to the American system. Even Chinese universities have begun experimenting with Western models of tenure in the last decade. To much of the world, the American system appears grounded on merit and flexible in the pursuit and dissemination of knowledge. Those state universities that in the 19th century were among the pioneers emphasizing a strong research enterprise – as a complementary component to their teaching and outreach missions (e.g., Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, California) – have all managed to adapt to new circumstances, demographic and disciplinary changes, and different modes of teaching; and all have maintained a system of tenure.

PURPOSE & KEY POINTS

After careful review and due consideration, the senior academic officers of the University of Minnesota recommend to the Board those faculty being considered for promotion and/or tenure, effective with the beginning dates of their terms of appointment in 2017-2018.

The Executive Vice President and Provost recommends for promotion and/or tenure those individuals listed in the docket who are members of the faculty on the Crookston, Morris, Rochester and Twin Cities campuses.

The Chancellor of the University of Minnesota Duluth, in accordance with the agreement between the Regents of the University of Minnesota and the University Education Association, recommends for promotion and/or tenure those individuals listed in the docket who are members of the Duluth faculty.

The docket materials provide statistics concerning the composition of the faculty group being recommended for promotion and/or tenure by gender, faculty of color, and rank. The docket also includes comparisons to previous years and an overview of the current process. This item will include statistical highlights of the cohort and the teaching, research, service, and public engagement of faculty who are recommended for tenure and/or promotion. A few faculty members under consideration for tenure and/or promotion will highlight their past and future work.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure calls for the administration to bring forward its recommendations for faculty promotion on an annual basis for action by the Board.

PRESIDENT’S RECOMMENDATION

The President recommends approval of these annual promotion and/or tenure recommendations.

Executive Summary

The Promotion and Tenure Process

According to the Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure, there are two types of faculty appointments - regular faculty or term (contract) faculty. Regular faculty are individuals who have received tenure, an indefinite appointment, or who are eligible to receive tenure and are on a probationary appointment. Term or contract faculty are appointed annually and are not eligible for tenure. Both regular and term faculty are appointed with a faculty rank: instructor, assistant professor, associate professor, and professor.

Each year, the Executive Vice President and Provost recommends actions to the Board of Regents for both groups of faculty. For regular faculty, the recommendations include: 1) assistant professors in a probationary period who have been evaluated for promotion to the rank of associate professor with the conferral of indefinite tenure; 2) associate professors in a probationary period who have been evaluated for the conferral of indefinite tenure (tenure in rank); and 3) associate professors with indefinite tenure who have been evaluated for promotion to the rank of professor with tenure. For term or contract faculty, the recommendations include: 1) assistant professors who have been evaluated for promotion to the rank of associate professor without tenure; and 2) associate professors who have been evaluated for promotion to the rank of professor without tenure. The majority of the contract faculty have appointments in the Academic Health Center, primarily in the Medical School, although other colleges have contract faculty appointments as well.

Regular Faculty

The Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure describes the University criteria for research or other creative work, teaching, and service to obtain tenure in Section 7.11 of that document. Similarly, Section 9.2 of the tenure policy describes the University criteria to reach the rank of professor.

In addition, each unit has written a document that describes the criteria for promotion and tenure for regular faculty in that department called the 7.12 statement (referring to Section 7.12 of the Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure). These documents describe the research, teaching, and service standards of the unit for promotion to the ranks of associate or full professor and for conferral of indefinite tenure.

Those untenured faculty with probationary appointments (either assistant or associate professors) receive formal written annual reviews that are mandated by the Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure (Section 7.2). These reviews are conducted by the initial department or unit, signed by the probationary faculty member, and subsequently forwarded for review by the candidate's collegiate dean, and the Executive Vice President and Provost (delegated to the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs). On the other system campuses, these reviews are forwarded to the vice chancellor and to the chancellor. During the sixth probationary year, these untenured faculty members must be evaluated for a final decision – promotion to associate professor and conferral of indefinite tenure (assistant professors) or conferral of indefinite tenure (associate professors). A probationary faculty member can also be denied tenure and/or promotion and be given an additional terminal year.

A decision for promotion and/or tenure can be made at any time during the probationary period (i.e. early promotion and/or tenure) and a faculty member can be terminated at any time during the probationary period if she or he is not making appropriate progress toward tenure and/or promotion. In addition, faculty may extend their probationary periods for the birth or adoption of a child or for the provision of care for a sick, injured, or disabled family member, or for their own significant illnesses or injuries (Board of Regents Policy: Faculty Tenure, Section 5.5). Finally, some faculty members come to the University of Minnesota with prior service at another university and have a shortened probationary period (no less than three years).

Associate professors with tenure also receive annual reviews (as do all tenured faculty including full professors) and can be considered for promotion to professor at any time after they have achieved this rank. The 7.12 statement for the unit describes the additional criteria that are required for promotion to full professor. These require the attainment of a national and/or international reputation and substantial advancement in their research or other creative work, teaching, and service.

Contract or Term Faculty

For those faculty not on tenure tracks, each unit has developed a set of promotion standards that have research, teaching, and service criteria as well as clinical practice criteria for those in the Academic Health Center. These criteria are somewhat different from those for regular faculty. That is, the types of research may be more applied, or may include types of scholarship that address effective models of teaching or continuing education. That is, the scholarship is significant and important but has a different scope.

These faculty also receive annual reviews of performance and receive feedback about their progress toward promotion to the next rank.

Regular Faculty: Review Process in the Decision Year for Tenure and/or Promotion

The basis for a promotion and/or tenure decision is the evaluation of a dossier that contains information about the faculty member’s scholarship or creative activity, teaching, and service. Each candidate’s record is evaluated by a group of external scholars who have positions of national or international prominence in the discipline of the candidate. For some colleges, internal reviewers from the University may provide additional evaluation. Reviewers are asked to assess the research or creative activity of the candidate; they may be asked to evaluate teaching as well. The faculty of each department or unit take a formal vote on promotion to the next rank and on conferral of indefinite tenure and provide a written report of the faculty discussion and the vote to the faculty member’s college. In addition, the chair or head of each unit writes a separate report of the case.

Regardless of the outcome of the vote, the entire case is forwarded to the college level. Most colleges have their own Promotion and Tenure Committee with representatives across the departments within the college. (Some smaller colleges send their materials to an All-University Promotion and Tenure Committee. Their recommendations go directly to the Executive Vice President and Provost). The second-level promotion and tenure committee (either collegiate or All-University) also evaluates the dossier and forwards their recommendations and formal vote in a report to the dean of the college; this report is advisory to the dean. The dean (and typically the associate deans of the college) evaluates the dossier as well. The dean provides a formal letter to the Executive Vice President and Provost with recommendations about promotion and/or tenure. For the Crookston, Morris and Rochester campuses, the reviews are conducted along division or department lines, followed by a college-wide or all-university committee review, and review by both the Vice Chancellor and the Chancellor.
The central level of review for the Twin Cities, Crookston, Morris, and Rochester campuses is coordinated by the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs who reviews each dossier (except those from the University of Minnesota Duluth). Cases that have negative decisions or mixed votes are reviewed by one or more additional central administrators. Results of all cases are reviewed by the Executive Vice President and Provost and the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs; actual cases that have variance in voting (i.e., a mix of positive and negative votes along the review process or negative recommendations) are reviewed directly by the Executive Vice President and Provost.

For assistant professors on probationary appointments, the possible outcomes of the decision are: promotion to associate professor with conferral of indefinite tenure or non-reappointment (which has a one-year terminal appointment). For associate professors with tenure, the possible outcomes are promotion to full professor with tenure or continuation in rank. For associate professors on probationary appointments, the outcomes are conferral of indefinite tenure, promotion to professor with tenure, or non-reappointment (which has a one-year terminal appointment).

Contract Faculty: Review Process

The review process is the same for contract faculty: dossiers are assembled documenting research, teaching, and service activities as well as clinical practice for those who are in the Academic Health Center; external and internal reviewers provide evaluation of research, teaching, service, and clinical practice, if applicable. Departments or units vote on promotion in rank. The report of these votes, along with a review by the unit head, is sent to the college level for review by a collegiate committee and the dean.

Assistant professors with term appointments may be promoted to the rank of associate professor; associate professors with term appointments may be promoted to the rank of professor.

Tenure Success Rate

The recommendation that a faculty member receive indefinite tenure is one of the most important ones made by the Executive Vice President and Provost since this represents the commitment of the University to this faculty member for the remainder of his/her career. The metric for tenure success that is used at the University of Minnesota is based on a comparison of the entering cohort of untenured assistant professors in a given year and the percentage of the cohort who has attained tenure seven years after beginning an appointment at the University. Over the course of the intervening probationary appointment, a number of untenured faculty receive reviews that suggest that their progress is unsatisfactory and they choose to leave the University. Some may receive notices of non-reappointment during the probationary period. Others may leave the University for another position for a variety of reasons. The number of untenured assistant professors who are recommended for tenure in their decision year is a fraction of the cohort that began.

Each year, the tenure success rate is calculated as a three-year rolling average. This year, the cohorts of probationary faculty began their appointments in 2007, 2008, and 2009. There were 339 faculty who began their appointments in this three-year group. After seven years, 57% had received tenure and were still employed at the University and 3% had received tenure and left the University. The three-year average tenure success rate is 60%.
Results of 2016-2017 Promotion and Tenure Review

In 2016-2017, a total of 174 cases were evaluated across the University of Minnesota system. There were 107 cases from the Twin Cities campus, 22 cases from the Duluth campus, 1 case from the Morris campus, 2 cases from the Crookston campus, and 2 cases from the Rochester campus. There were 134 cases for regular faculty and 40 cases for contract faculty.

Table 1 contains all recommendations by gender and category of rank for both regular and contract faculty. For regular faculty, there are 58 assistant professors on probationary appointments who were reviewed: 55 of them are recommended for tenure and promotion to the rank of associate professor and 3 are recommended for non-reappointment.

Of the 9 associate professors on a probationary appointment, 8 are recommended for conferral of indefinite tenure in rank, and 1 is recommended for tenure and promotion to professor.

All of the 67 associate professors with tenure are recommended for promotion to professor.

For contract faculty, 28 assistant professors are recommended for promotion to associate professor, and 12 associate professors are recommended for promotion to professor.

Of the 174 total cases, 102 are men (59%) and 72 are women (41%). For the regular faculty, 63% are men and 37% are women. For the contract faculty, 45% are men and 55% are women. In addition, 50 decisions or 29% involved faculty of color (includes international faculty of color). These data are displayed in Tables 1 and 2, separated by gender and ethnicity.

Continuous Appointments for Academic Professionals

2016-2017

Faculty Tenure Policy

- Defines regular faculty
  - Tenured with indefinite appointments
  - Tenure-track who are eligible for tenure

- Defines contract faculty
  - Annual appointments or multi-year appointments
Basic Principles: Tenure

- University-wide criteria for tenure
  - Research or other creative activity
  - Teaching effectiveness
    (classroom, laboratory, studio, advising)
  - Service
    (outreach, public engagement, service to profession)
- Cumulative record should form the foundation for a national or international reputation or both
- Promise of achieving promotion to professor
- Provides for indefinite appointment for faculty after a probationary period
Basic Principles: Tenure

- Each unit has a set of standards and criteria for research or creative activity, teaching, and service in addition to those of the University
- Annual reviews are mandated each year of the probationary period
- Faculty may resign or receive terminal appointments during the probationary period
Basic Principles: Promotion

• Ranks
  – assistant professor
  – associate professor
  – professor

• Regular faculty have both rank and tenure or the possibility of achieving tenure

• Contract faculty have rank only
Basic Principles: Promotion for Regular Faculty

• Tenure and promotion to associate professor occur together

• Promotion to professor for tenured associate professors
  – Added substantially to an already distinguished record of research or other creative work, teaching, and service
  – Must have a national or international reputation or both
Basic Principles: Promotion for Contract Faculty

• Each unit has criteria for promotion in rank for contract faculty

• These include teaching, research, and service
  – May include clinical activities for those in the Academic Health Center
  – May include extension activities for those in College of Food, Agricultural, and Natural Resource Sciences

• Criteria are different than those for regular faculty
Review Process

- Unit seeks reviews of each candidate for tenure and/or promotion from external evaluators at other institutions
  - Experts in the area of the candidate write detailed letters
  - Experts have national and/or international stature
Review Process

• Candidate has a dossier
  – Curriculum vitae
  – Statements about research or other creative activity, teaching, and service – Teaching data from student ratings and peer reviews of teaching
  – Internal letters in some cases
  – Samples of scholarship or other creative activity

Tenure Success

• This year, only 3 of 67 faculty who were evaluated for tenure and promotion to associate professor are recommended for tenure denial

• Despite this, it is an incorrect assumption that almost all faculty achieve tenure at the University of Minnesota

• We have a rigorous, annual review process
  – Faculty leave during the probationary period based on feedback received – Some are not reappointed
Rate of Tenure Success

• Look at an entering cohort of assistant professors in a given year (e.g. 2007-2008 academic year)

• Follow them over a full cycle of 7 years (6 probationary years + 1 year post-tenure)

• Take a snapshot at a point in time
Tenure Success Rate

- Look at four possible outcomes for those who were hired:
  - received tenure and are still at the University
  - received tenure and left the University
  - left the University without tenure
  - are still at the University on the tenure clock
Tenure Success Rate

- Includes the percent of tenure-track faculty who received tenure and stayed at the U of M plus the percent of tenure-track faculty who received tenure and left the U of M
Tenure Success Rate

- Examine the tenure success rate over a three-year period
- Look at the rolling three-year average each year
- Overall tenure success rate of 60% for this year’s cohort
Continuous Appointments

• Fewer than 3% of academic professionals are on continuous appointments (93 individuals)

• Over half of these are in the University Libraries

• The remainder are attorneys, educational or clinical specialists, academic advisors, physicians, psychologists, and curators
Continuous Appointment Recommendations

• There are six academic professional being recommended for continuous appointment this year
  – Assistant librarian in the University Libraries (includes promotion to associate librarian)
Recommendations

1. That the regular faculty candidates on the list be approved for tenure and/or promotion as indicated;

2. That the contract faculty candidates listed be approved for promotion to the rank indicated;

3. That the academic professional candidates listed receive continuous appointments and promotions as indicated.

Executive Summary

The Continuous Appointment Process

Each year, the Executive Vice President and Provost recommends to the Board of Regents a group of academic professionals for continuous appointments. The conferral of continuous appointment status for an academic professional is parallel to the conferral of indefinite tenure for a faculty member and follows a similar process. There are currently 93 academic professionals who are on continuous appointment or probationary status on the continuous appointment track.

Over half of the academic professionals with continuous appointments or probationary status work in the University Libraries. The remaining academic professionals with continuous appointments or probationary status across the University hold positions such as attorney, educational or clinical specialist, academic advisor, physician, psychologist, or curator.

Review Process

Just as for faculty, academic professionals with probationary status receive an annual review for each of the six probationary years that provides them with feedback about their progress toward receiving a continuous appointment. This review includes the unit level, the collegiate or divisional level, and the central level (the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs).

During the decision year for receiving a continuous appointment, the home unit of the individual solicits letters from external reviewers who are experts in their fields at other institutions. The unit may also include internal letters from other individuals at the University with whom the candidate interacts. For example, for a university librarian, letters may be solicited from academic department chairs whose departments are served by that librarian. This review has three stages as well: the unit in which the individual is employed, an All-University Review Committee, and the central level in the Provost’s Office (the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs). The results of the complete process are reviewed together by the Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost and the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs.

2016-2017 Candidates for Continuous Appointment

This year, the Executive Vice President and Provost recommends to the Board of Regents six individuals from the Twin Cities campus in the Librarian series of the academic professional employee category for continuous appointments.

For the employee category of academic professionals, the gender breakdown is 54% women (2,609) and 46% men (2,246). In addition, 13% (641 individuals) are persons of color. The individuals recommended for continuous appointments this year are six white females.

The President recommends approval of the Consent Report.
Personnel Appointment

Pending approval by the Board of Regents, Dr. Mary Holz-Clause will be appointed Chancellor of the University of Minnesota, Crookston effective June 30, 2017.

Position Overview

The chancellor is the chief representative and executive officer of the Crookston campus. The chancellor is appointed by the Board of Regents upon the recommendation of the president of the University. By virtue of delegation from the president, the chancellor has general administrative authority over campus affairs. The chancellor: articulates a vision for the campus and builds support for that vision among external constituencies; develops policy, manages financial resources, and provides leadership and direction to faculty and staff to maximize human and financial capital; makes final recommendations to the Board of Regents for the conferring of tenure and the granting of faculty promotions; and appoints administrative officers, delegates various responsibilities to them, and initiates performance reviews of them.

Appointees Background and Qualifications

Dr. Holz-Clause comes to UMC from California State Polytechnic (Cal Poly) University Pomona, where she has served since 2014 as dean of the Huntley College of Agriculture and a tenured professor in the Department of Agricultural Business Management and Agriculture Science. In that role, she oversees a student body of more than 2,000 — many of whom are underrepresented minorities and/or first generation college students — and 150 faculty and staff, as well as five departments, four centers, and nine farms and enterprises. Before Cal Poly Pomona, Holz-Clause was the vice president for economic development at the University of Connecticut. There, she oversaw initial development of the UConn Technology Park in Storrs, Conn., and created an Office of Economic Development, garnering millions in outside contracts.

This position at UMC marks a return to the Midwest for Holz-Clause, who has spent much of her life in Iowa — mostly at Iowa State University in Ames. After earning her B.S. in Agriculture Business, a Master’s in Public Administration and a Ph.D. in Agriculture Education and Extension there, Holz-Clause spent 25 years working at her alma mater. During that time, she helped ISU Extension become a dynamic engagement and outreach partner across Iowa, the U.S. and the world. An internationally-known researcher and speaker with extensive background in agricultural development and policy, in the past decade Holz-Clause has served as the principal investigator on contracts and grants totaling more than $40 million. She recently was appointed by California Governor Jerry Brown to serve on the California Department of Food and Agriculture Advisory Board, the primary advisory board for the $100 billion agriculture industry in California. Holz-Clause and her husband also own and operate a corn/soybean/cattle feedlot in central Iowa.

Recommended Salary and Appointment Type

Dr. Holz-Clause’s annual salary for 2017-18 will be $250,000. Her appointment as Chancellor of the University of Minnesota, Crookston is a 100%-time, A-term (12-month), L-type (limited) appointment, reporting to and serving at the pleasure of the president. The full employment agreement between the University of Minnesota and Dr. Holz-Clause is attached as an exhibit.

Individually Negotiated Terms of Employment or Separation Agreements

Dr. Holz-Clause will be provided an annual housing allowance of $15,000.

Comparable Market Data

Among the peer group for UMC used by the Office of Human Resources, the figures for campus chief executive officers are as follows:

25th percentile: $240,600
50th percentile: $254,700
75th percentile: $256,300
95th percentile (or highest): $318,500

When determining comparable market data for the UMC chancellor salary, as with many positions within the University system, salaries at the other University campuses provide an important salary range. The other three chancellors within the University system have salaries that range from $250,000 to $298,000.

President’s Recommendation

The president recommends the appointment of Dr. Mary Holz-Clause to the position of Chancellor, University of Minnesota, Crookston.

Personnel Appointment

Pending approval by the Board of Regents, Carol Strohecker will be appointed Dean of the College of Design, effective August 31, 2017.

Position Overview

As dean, Carol will serve as the chief executive officer and chief academic officer of the College of Design. She will provide strategic and intellectual leadership and administrative oversight for the school and will collaborate with other campus deans to advance the University’s collective mission. She will also provide visionary leadership and administrative oversight of, and accountability for, the college, including oversight of the responsible planning, stewardship and management of the college’s fiscal, capital and human resources. As dean, Carol will promote and represent the college, playing a major leadership role in fundraising, including efforts to secure philanthropic support for its mission. She will also integrate the college and its many vital resources and functions into the broader community – locally, nationally and globally-- garnering support for the College of Design from both internal and external stakeholders.

Carol brings to the University a wealth of experience as an innovative and collaborative leader who has advanced interdisciplinary research, education, and creative work in a variety of settings. Most recently, from 2013 to 2016, she was vice provost for academic affairs at the Rhode Island School of Design, in Providence, RI. She served from 2006 to 2013 as inaugural director of the Center for Design Innovation, a multi-campus, multi-disciplinary research and design center of the University of North Carolina system. There she held concurrent roles as chief research officer at the University of North Carolina School of the Arts and as a tenured professor in art and visual studies at UNC’s Winston-Salem State University.

Previously she was principal investigator for the Everyday Learning research group at Media Lab Europe--the European research partner of the MIT Media Lab--where she developed a research agenda in design and education and was a member of the executive team.

As vice provost at RISD, she led assessment of the school’s academic programs in arts and design as part of school-wide accreditation processes, enhanced ongoing academic program review, and collaborated with faculty and students to improve academic policies supporting student progress. She co-directed an interdisciplinary dual degree program with Brown University, contributed to the development of a campus master plan, and collaborated in a variety of ways to seed or enhance cross-institutional research and community engagement initiatives.

Carol holds a Ph.D. in media arts and sciences and a master of science in visual studies, both from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She has published and presented widely on topics related to learning theory and the development of environments in which people can learn through creative processes. Her portfolio includes creative works in various media, as well as collaborative work in interactive media tools and methods that has resulted in four U.S. patents.

Recommended Salary and Appointment Type

Carol Strohecker’s annual salary will be $240,000. Her appointment as Dean of the College of Design is a 100%-time, A-term (12-month), L-type (limited) appointment, reporting to and serving at the pleasure of the Executive Vice President and Provost. The full employment agreement between the University of Minnesota and Carol Strohecker is attached as an exhibit.

Individually Negotiated Terms of Employment or Separation Agreements

There are no individually negotiated terms of employment or separation agreements.

Comparable Market Data

Benchmarking with CUPA-HR (College and University Professional Association for Human Resources) Executive Survey* for the position of Dean of Architecture/Design:

25th percentile – $229,786
50th percentile – $264,904
75th percentile – $294,544

The data represent responses from surveys sent to 35 peer/comparison institutions of higher education across 21 states. When determining comparable market data for the University of Minnesota against our peers, there are often distinct differences in positions—their scope and responsibilities—and salaries across institutions of higher education (i.e., the credentials, background and experience that the dean holds; reporting line; scope of responsibilities; size and complexity of the college/school), which may impact the range and validity of the data.

Recommendation

The President recommends the appointment of Carol Strohecker as Dean of the College of Design at the University of Minnesota.

Comparable Market Data

Benchmarking with the Annual Review of Senior Leader Compensation, presented to the Board of Regents in December, 2016, shows comparative base salary data* for the position of Dean of the Hubert H. Humphrey School of Public Affairs as follows:

- 25th percentile – $302,900
- 50th percentile – $322,900
- 75th percentile – $339,000

The data represent responses from surveys sent to 35 peer/comparison institutions of higher education across 21 states. When determining comparable market data for the University of Minnesota against our peers, there are often distinct differences in positions—their scope and responsibilities—and thus salaries across institutions of higher education (i.e., the credentials, background and experience that the dean holds; reporting line; size and complexity of the college/school), which may impact the range and validity of the data.

Recommendation

The President recommends the appointment of Laura Bloomberg as Dean of the Hubert H. Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota.

representing in a positive fashion the University and its athletic programs in private and public forums.

Appointee Background and Qualifications

Head Coach Richard Pitino took over as the head coach of the Gopher men’s basketball program in 2013 and immediately led his team to a program-record 25 victories and a National Invitational Tournament (NIT) championship. Though those 25 wins remain the program’s highest total for a single season, it’s inarguable that last season was the best for the program under Coach Pitino’s guidance. Last year, Pitino’s team set new program records and accomplished milestones that the program had not reached in decades.

Pitino oversaw the greatest single-season turnaround of any Division I men’s basketball program last year, improving the Gophers’ win total by 16 and marking a return to the NCAA Tournament. Under Pitino’s watch, Minnesota set a new program record with 23 regular season victories. That total was driven, in part, by eight-straight Big Ten wins, the team’s longest conference winning streak since 1973. The team’s 11-7 record in conference play was its highest single-season Big Ten win total in more than a quarter-century, and its fourth-place finish in the league standings was its best in 12 years. Four individual Gophers were recognized this year in All-Big Ten and Pitino, for his efforts, was named Big Ten Coach of the Year by the conference head coaches and the media. That success was built on a sustainable foundation, as Coach Pitino will return four starters and 12 contributors from what was among the nation’s youngest teams this past season.

One of the nation’s youngest head coaches and second-youngest at a Power 5 conference school, Pitino has posted a 75-61 overall record in his four seasons at the helm. He has presided over three winning seasons while at Minnesota.

Background Information

Coach Pitino’s initial employment agreement as men’s basketball coach went into effect on April 14, 2013. A first amendment to the employment agreement went into effect on August 14, 2015. A second amendment to the employment agreement went into effect on January 1, 2017 that did not change the financial terms, but simply clarified language related to travel.

Summary of Amendment to the Employment Agreement

This third amendment would add one year to Coach Pitino’s existing employment agreement with the University, with the additional year not guaranteed. Both parties would have the right to terminate the contract after April 30, 2021 without any financial obligations to the other. This contract amendment does not change Coach Pitino’s salary, which will remain at $1.6 million per each year of the agreement (this amount includes both his base salary and supplemental compensation as outlined in the employment agreement). It also does not change the financial conditions tied to either Coach Pitino or the University terminating this contract without just cause. The change in compensation included in this amendment is the addition of four retention bonuses that will be paid to Coach Pitino if he is still head coach on specific dates and his team is compliant with the NCAA’s Academic Progress Rate (APR). The new retention bonuses are as follows:
- $250,000 to be paid on August 1, 2017
- $250,000 to be paid on April 30, 2020
- $550,000 to be paid on April 30, 2021
- $650,000 to be paid on April 30, 2022

Comparable Market Data

The inclusion of the retention bonuses in the amendment to the employment agreement will increase Coach Pitino’s average annual compensation over the duration of the contract to approximately $2 million, which will place him 9th among the 14 Big Ten Conference coaches in annual compensation.

Recommendation

The president recommends approval of the amendment to the employment agreement for Richard Pitino as Head Men’s Basketball Coach, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.
THIRD AMENDMENT TO EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

This is a third contractual amendment to the Employment Agreement between the University of Minnesota ("the University"), on behalf of its Department of Intercollegiate Athletics on the Twin Cities campus ("the Department"), and Richard Pitino ("Coach"), entered into effective April 14, 2013 ("Employment Agreement"), as amended effective August 14, 2015 ("First Amendment") and amended again effective January 1, 2017 ("Second Amendment"). The University and Coach do now mutually desire to amend certain terms of the Employment Agreement by entering into this third amendment to the Employment Agreement ("Third Amendment"), effective May 13, 2017.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promised and covenants contained in this Third Amendment, and such other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which the parties hereby acknowledge, the parties agree to amend their Employment Agreement as follows:

1. Paragraph 1.1 is deleted and replaced with the following:

   1.1 Term. Subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the University hereby employs Coach as the head coach of its intercollegiate Men's Basketball team at the University of Minnesota (Twin Cities campus), and Coach agrees to be so employed by the University, for a term commencing on April 8, 2013, and ending on April 30, 2022 (the "Term of Employment").

2. Paragraph 2.6 is deleted and replaced with the following:

   2.6 Contract Fulfillment Incentive. The University shall pay to Coach the following amounts:

   a. $250,000 to be paid on August 1, 2017
   b. $450,000 to be paid on April 30, 2019
   c. $250,000 to be paid on April 30, 2020
   d. $550,000 to be paid on April 30, 2021
   e. $650,000 to be paid on April 30, 2022

   In order to earn any payment under this paragraph, Coach must be employed by the University as its head coach for men's basketball on the dates set forth above, and the men's basketball team must be fully APR compliant (compliant APR score with no penalties) on the dates set forth above.
3. Paragraph 3.2.1 is deleted and replaced with the following:

3.2.1 The University may terminate this Agreement at any time, without just cause, upon 30 days' prior written notice to Coach. If such termination occurs on or before April 30, 2021, the University shall pay Coach a Termination Fee of one-half the base salary under Section 2.1.1 and the full amount of supplemental compensation under Section 2.1.2, including guaranteed increases provided in those sections, that would otherwise have been payable to Coach through April 30, 2021, had the Agreement continued through that date. If termination occurs after April 30, 2021, there will be no Termination Fee. Any Termination Fee paid under this Section 3.2 shall be subject to withholding for applicable federal and state income taxes, federal social security taxes, and all other applicable taxes and deductions. Payments under this Section 3.2 shall be made on a monthly basis in accordance with the following schedule:

   a. The first installment will be equal to the amount of federal, state, and local income tax and the amount of FICA withholding that would have been remitted by the University if there had been a payment of wages to Coach on the date of his involuntary termination equal to the income includible by Coach on the Termination Fee under Section 457(f) of the Internal Revenue Code. This installment will be paid within sixty (60) days following the date of involuntary termination.

   b. The second and remaining installments will be paid over the remaining Term of Employment in substantially equal monthly amounts.

If the University makes any payment under this Section 3.2, Coach waives the right to seek additional compensation or damages from the University. Termination under this Section 3.2 shall supersede all rights Coach may have under the Policies and Procedures including but not limited to any rights to notice or layoff programs.

4. Except as expressly provided in this Amendment, each and every term and condition of the Employment Agreement shall remain unchanged.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned have caused this Amendment to be effective as of the date first shown above.
